Dear Dr. Winandari:

I hope this email finds you well.

I am writing to request you to provide a discount code if you have one since you have chosen that option while requesting a waiver for your manuscript.

Also, you have mentioned "TF-Top-Author-24" in your custom questions, could you elaborate or provide any information regarding this ?

Looking forward to your response.

Sincerely,

Dear Editor,

Thank you for the information you provided.

One of the authors of my article, Dr. Sri Yuliani, has a discount code for your journal. The code, which is attached, is "TABE-2025-C29994" and provides a 20% discount. The code "TF-Top-Author-24" that I mentioned in my previous question has been updated to "TABE-2025-C29994."

I hope this clarifies your question. Looking forward to hearing the next good news.

Your manuscript, JAABE2506673RA, entitled "Placemaking in Yogyakarta's Public Housing: The Role of Square Layouts and Community Initiatives in Sustainable Design" has been unsubmitted to the Journal of Asian Architecture and Building Engineering.

1. Please include a statement in the methods section of your article indicating what ethical approval was obtained for the study. This statement should include the name of the relevant ethics committee which provided approval and the reference number where possible. Studies involving human participants must adhere to the Declaration of Helsinki (<https://www.wma.net/policies-post/wmadeclaration-of-helsinki-ethical-principles-for-medical-research-involving-human-subjects/>). Studies involving laboratory animals should follow the ARRIVE guidelines (<https://arriveguidelines.org/>).

If no ethical approval was required, please state this and provide an exception statement obtained from your relevant University.

2. In studies involving human participants a statement should be included which indicates that informed consent for participation in the study has been obtained. Please include a statement regarding informed consent in the methods section of your article, including whether this consent was written or verbal.

3. Please provide an author contributions statement at the end of your non-anonymized article, before the references. This statement should outline which author(s) were involved in the conception and design, or analysis and interpretation of the data; the drafting of the paper; revising it critically for intellectual content; and the final approval of the version to be published; and that all authors agree to be accountable for all aspects of the work. Please refer to this link (<http://www.icmje.org/recommendations/browse/roles-and-responsibilities/defining-the-role-of-authors-and-contributors.html>) and ensure that all listed authors meet the criteria for authorship as per the ICMJE guidelines.

4. Please include a statement regarding competing interests under the heading 'Disclosure of interest' at the end of your article before the references. If there are no interests to declare, please state this. Please see this guidance on what is a conflict of interest and how to disclose it: <https://authorservices.taylorandfrancis.com/editorial-policies/competing-interest/>.

5. "Please provide a declaration of funding at the end of your article before the references. This should mention the sponsors of your research, any contribution they have made in preparing this article, and grant number, if appropriate. If there is no sponsorship or funding, please state "No funding was received".

6. We want to ensure that your manuscript has the best chance of success and is free from grammatical, spelling, and other common language errors, before it is reviewed by our editors and peer reviewers. Attached to this email, you will find recommended edits to your manuscript made by an automated English language tool, provided in track changes.

What to do next:

1. Review each of the automated suggested edits carefully and choose which to accept or decline, ensuring that there have been no unintentional changes to your meaning.
2. Take note of any other missing submission requirements listed in this email and include them in your new document.
3. Once you have saved a new, clean version of your edited manuscript, please re-upload it as your main document file for this submission. Your submission will then proceed as usual.

Please note that use of the edited version has no influence on the editorial outcome for your manuscript. It is solely intended to enhance the readability of your valuable research.

If you do not wish to use our automated support - please still address any missing submission requirements listed in this email and re-submit your manuscript. Your submission will then proceed as usual.

Thank you very much for your attention.

the paper has been well written, some areas of improvement include clarification in the findings section. They could benefit from smoother transitions.

This is a good paper that examines how placemaking (through public housing squares) influences the development and functionality of public housing in Indonesia.

This is a well-written paper highlighting the role of public housing squares in achieving sustainability.

The research method - primarily a case study approach with effective mapping - is systematic and well-applied in reaching the conclusions.

It is valuable that the authors have compared squares across three public housing estates. However, I was left wondering how these findings might compare with other types of housing estates, for example, private developments. This is just my opinion, no action is required. I think comparison with other types of housing could be greatly helpful.

The study provides important planning and design implications.

I also noted that the authors did not examine the effect of square size on outcomes. The maps indicate that the squares vary in size, and this could have implications for the findings.

In addition, the paper does not meaningfully extract insights from the interviews with residents. It would be helpful if the number of interviews conducted were stated, and if similarities or differences in residents' perspectives were discussed more clearly.

Congratulations on your accepted manuscript in Journal of Asian Architecture and Building Engineering.

In order to prepare your manuscript for publication,

The figures for your manuscript are currently not of print quality. Journal of Asian Architecture and Building Engineering requires that all figures should be [Minimum 300dpi]. Please provide the figures in the accepted format.

Any figures should be saved as either .ps, .eps, .tif or .jpeg file types.

For more guidance on how to provide figures and image files please look here: <https://authorservices.taylorandfrancis.com/publishing-your-research/making-your-submission/submit-electronic-artwork/>

As I will be unable to proceed without them, I would be grateful if you could provide your files for this submission as soon as possible.

Sincerely,

Pradeeshwar

Placemaking in Yogyakarta's public housing: the role of square layouts and community initiatives in sustainable design

Now your article is published, we'd like to share some tips on how you can work with us to highlight your research.

Tips to draw attention to your article

Publishing Open Access means your article can be read by anyone, anywhere, and we want to work with you to ensure it reaches as wide (and as appropriate) an audience as possible. Author feedback tells us that the tips below are all quick, simple, and effective ways of highlighting research. We hope you'll give them a try.

Why not...

1. Post about it on X, Bluesky and Facebook. Find out more about how to tweet your research.
2. Are you on LinkedIn or any other professional or academic network? You can post details of your article and add a link to your profile (and by including the link back to your published article you'll also be able to track its downloads and citations).
3. Add a link to your article to your email signature (we can create a free banner for you – just fill out the banner request form).
4. Add your article to your students' reading lists.
5. Put a link to your article on your institutional profile page, your personal webpage, or any project websites. You don't have to just paste the link, you could even think about writing a few introductory lines to your article, to grab people's attention.
6. Is your article newsworthy? Think about speaking to your university's press office (and if you do create a press release don't forget to tell us about it so we can spread the word too).
7. And finally, if you blog, don't forget to include your article. Find out how to make blogging work for you.

Next steps

We'll be in touch as soon as your article is assigned to the latest issue of Journal of Asian Architecture and Building Engineering, but if you've any queries in the interim don't hesitate to get in touch.
